Family In Law.

In 1933, BNA first published The United States Law Week. With that first issue, BNA set a new standard for high-quality legal reporting and research. Following Law Week's precedent, BNA has since launched a family of information services for legal professionals.

BNA’s notification services cover key areas of the legal field. They include: Family Law Reporter; BNA’s Bankruptcy Law Reporter; Business Law Adviser; Corporate Governance Report; Mergers & Acquisitions Law Report; BNA’s Patent, Trademark & Copyright Journal; and Criminal Law Reporter.

Whichever publication you choose, you’ll notice the family resemblance — comprehensive, accurate, in-depth coverage.

Ask your professor for details on low student rates for BNA information services.

The Indiana Law Review dedicates this issue to Minde C. Browning for her friendship and commitment to the Law Review. Minde, herself a graduate of the Indiana University School of Law—Indianapolis, was a member of the law library faculty for ten years. She served as Assistant Director for Reader Services and Assistant Director of the Program for Management of Legal Information Systems.

Minde provided constant guidance for Law Review editors and helped new Law Review members to better understand reference services and database searches. She also helped maintain the Law Review’s website, including the placement of back issues at the site.

The Indiana Law Review deeply feels the loss of Minde’s support, patience, talent, and energy.
The Indiana International & Comparative Law Review, published by the Indiana University School of Law—Indianapolis since 1991, is a student-edited law journal which provides a forum for the discussion and analysis of contemporary issues in public and private international law. The Review publishes articles by prominent legal scholars, practitioners, and policy makers from around the world, as well as student-written notes and comments.

The Review is published twice annually, with a periodic third issue devoted to a specific topic in international or comparative law. In 1994, in conjunction with the Italian Academy for Advanced Studies in America at Columbia University, the Review published a special issue on the political and social aspects of Italian law. In 1996, the Review published an issue addressing various aspects of Chinese law.

WOMEN AND THE LAW: FACING THE MILLENNIUM

In celebration of the Indiana Law Review’s first all-female Executive Board, this issue explores the relationship between women and the law. We extend our thanks to Professor Florence Roisman for planting the seed that germinated into this issue; and Professor David Papke for encouraging us to implement our ideas for progressing the Law Review.
